Seven Wonders of the Modern World

In 2007, the list of the seven wonders of the world was updated. Around 100 million votes from all over the world were cast to select the seven most recognisable, man-made monuments of artistic or architectural value that reflect and celebrate culture and social diversity.

The Great Pyramid of Giza wasn't voted into the top seven, but was named an 'honorary candidate'.

What are the Seven Wonders of the Modern World?

People had to vote for the Seven Wonders of the World from a list of 21 places. The question is: which of the 21 places made the cut?

Your task for today is to sort the pictures and identify which places you think are the Seven Wonders of the Modern World.

Have you been to any of the places? Which place would you most like to visit and why?
